To ambitious men a seat in the House of Representatives has not of late years been considered desirable except for the fact that it was thought to be a good stepping stone. The last primary has in a measure disproved this belief. Of the nominees for State offices not a single one has served in the Legislature. authority named, there are plenty of eports of instances in which every possible precaution in reference to water supply have been taken, "and yet typhoid continued to spread as hough nothing had been done." Whether the typhoid bacillus subsists in the soil directly, or finds a host in some worm or other living organism, or in some product of decomposition, he adds, he cannot say, "but somehow it survives in the ground just as successfully, or even more so, than it does in water." His observations lead to the conclusion that "the burial of typhoid material in the earth, without adequate disinfection, is the surest way of perpetuating the disease in any locality, keeping it alive for years, and causing it to become epidemic." Infection from the soil, it is remarked, may find access to the intestinal tract in many ways other than through the agency of water. Vegetables that are eaten raw, as on contaminated soil, is one way. Dust blown by the wind is another. Hence in vilages and camps typhoid is usually fly-borne and in cities water-borne. When a source of public water supply has been infected cases of the disease occur throughout the year." "When the conveyance of the disease is by flies the prevalence of the disease will be confined to a particular season exclusively. Thus in cities typhoid prevails at all seasons. In villages it is an autumnal disease." When the weather is dry and sultry flies have their best opportunity to carry the infection; or, in other words, under the very conditions best adapted to prevent its spread if

We cannot do better than state his conclusion in the author's own words: "No matter in what manner conveyed, the spread of typhoid fever is absolutely preventible. Instant disinfection of typhoid stools without a moment's delay solves the whole problem. This being done, there is nothing left for soil, air, water or flies to carry." Instant disinfection is an "absolute preventive." Debt of Greenville County

Greenville, September 18.-In the final presentment of the grand, jury made in the Court of General Sessions yesterday, the following informetion is sized and supporters throughout the State, I adopt this method of thanking them for the handsome vote and loyal sions yesterday, the following information is given in regard to the indebtedness of the county: The bonded indebtedness amounts to $184,500. Of this amount $132,500 represents railroad bonds and $53,000 past indebtedness bonds. The railroad bonds are made up as follows: Greenville and Laurens railroad bonds $41,000, issued in 1882 and 1883 and maturing in yearly inand 1883 and maturing in yearly in- have taken his seat as dovernor, ready to hold up his hands in any stallments from 1902 to 1909 inclusive. And $11,000 issued in 1901 to refund $8,500 of 'past due Greenville and Laurens bonds and $2,500 Air Line railway bonds.

Since 1876 the county has been running one year behind in the collection of taxes for ordinary county expenses, and the county has borrowed the sum of about $62,000 phoid fever would become well-nigh this year for all expenses, which will have to be paid off when the notes prising how rapidly even a lively and other evidences of debt mature, epidemic, at the most unfavorable and out of the taxes collected this

The Israel of God prevails with God and man. The intellectual worker prevails with man only. St. Paul, with all the other apostles, seemed to have been zealons to guard against speaking with enticing words of man's wisdom, but insisted that they might speak with demonstration of the Spirit and of power, that the word preached might work effectually in the hearts of the hearers, and bring forth the fruits which God intended that it should, viz: repentance unto salvation not to be repented of, and in order to accomplish this he warned the people day and night with tears, and suffered all kinds of self-denial and persecutions. He prevailed with God in order to prevail with men. He felt God's interest in the souls that God gave him. And even after all his abundant labor of love he feared lest he had bestowed labor in vain, which proved true, for many departed from the faith right in the face of all his suffering for them, having loved this present world.

How different it is with those who prevail with or seek to win men with a view to picase God and relieve their own conscience. They are simply fattening themselves on the people, easing their conscience and feeling swelled up in themselves bocause of what they have accomplished. What gluttonous murder! Such workers do not feel that burning love and jealous care over the few that will cause them to stand by them, and warn them and instruct them in the ways of righteousness and Godliness and purity by precept and an example of a self-denying life. They are satisfied with an easy conscience rather than a clear and heavenly one, so they are contented when they have succeeded in getting souls to ease their conscience by professing religion or perhaps join the church without any heartrending confessions of their sins and making their past lives straight between man and man, and crying their way through to God. They do not rejoice as much over one sinner that repented in their own, even though they say they do, and they may try to, but the human heart is too exceedingly careful attention.

A farmer recently applied paris green to the cotton in his field where the boll worms were doing damage. There had been but little rain since the paris green was applied. Three or four days ago seven cotton pickers—four men and three women—went to work in the patch where the poison had been applied. Late in the evening they became sick and during the night all of them are reported to have died. Their death is said to have been caused by inhaling the dust of the poison.

Tape Worm Caused Death.

New York, September 12.—After performing an autopsy on the body of Rudolph Haller, laborer, a coroner's physician has decided that insanity from which Haller suffered and died, was caused by a tape worm 60 feet long.

Haller's case puzzed the insanity experts at Bellevue. At times he would fall in what appeared to be an epileptic fit. At other times he would apparently be normal. The autopsy showed that the tape worm had distended the organs and caused such pressure on the tendons and ligaments connected with the spinal and ligaments connected with the spinal column and spinal cord that the brain was affected.
